BUSINESS MEN BACK UP BOY SCOUT DRIVE

Fifty business men of Grand Rapids, Port Edwards and Nekeosa, gathered at two meetings during the past week for the purpose of re-organizing the Boy Scouts of Grand Rapids and this vicinity, hearing a report of the success of the organization and expressing themselves heartily in favor of re-organization steps. At a business meeting held Monday evening at the Elks, the following officers were elected:

Vice Pres. for Grand Rapids—Capt. Guy Nash.
Vice President for Biron—Fred H. Chaffin.
Vice President for Port Edwards—Levi LaRoux.
Vice President for Nekeosa—Dr. H. F. Peters.
Secretary—Dr. C. T. Foote.
Director for Grand Rapids—L. A. DeBacco.
Director for Biron—To be appointed.
Director for Port Edwards—G. M. Hadenback.
Director for Nekeosa—George Munkit.

Warne, a boy scout organizer, appeared before about fifty of the business men at the Elks last Friday afternoon, when he told of the work and the necessity of getting the boys interested in it again in Grand Rapids. He told of the good that this organization accomplishes for the boys and the work that has succeeded when the other movements to develop and benefit boys have fallen down. Mr. Warne told how the Boy Scouts have aided in winning the war, how they have been of great help in the different localities and how when the supply of walnut for rifle stocks had run low the Boy Scouts had enough of walnut to take care of the supply for several years. These were a few of the things they had done during the war.

It was decided that the only way anything could be accomplished in this city was to employ Scout Executive, who would carry on the work. It was estimated that it would cost about $3,000 to carry on the work in Grand Rapids and in all probability there will be a campaign conducted in the city for the purpose of raising the money. An attempt to raise $1,000,000 by soliciting members to the organization, through the United States, is being made and every father in Grand Rapids is expected to interest his son in the good that the boys derive from the work.

WEST ALLEN MAN TAKES ARPIN GIRL FOR BRIDE

Miss Hazel Violet Martin, of Arpin, and Mr. Dewey S. Parks, of West Allen, were married at the home of the bride's parents in Arpin last Tuesday. Rev. M. Penler, of that village performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a very prettily dressed in white silk and georgette crepe. The bridesmaid was also very prettily dressed in an attractive gown. SPECKED APPLE EATERS

"Until I was a man grown, and had sense enough to grow a red apple at a state and eat it at once, I never knew what it was to have a good sound apple," said the man of fifty-five. "My old dad, who was a farmer, bought a barrel of every win-win and stuck it in the cellar. Then it was my job to pick them over every week, and I brought up the specked ones of the ones that were good. They were always eating good apples while the good ones down cellar, but they were getting spoiled."

We may laugh at it as a sample of old-fashioned economy, but it is so old-fashioned after all. Don't make us spend a good deal of time eating the specked apples of life when we might as well enjoy the fresh fruit.

There is the housewife who will leave her setting to go and rest her soul at good play for fear someone will come in and see her plans undusted. No one does come, for she has become too in-growing, too sure of her own wisdom, to leave her house to be interested as she loses out both ways.

There is the business man who needs a vacation but will not take it because he cannot afford the time or the money. He breaks down from overwork, spends the time in bed and money for a doctor.

There are the people who deny themselves even fair and reasonable expenditures in the present, preparing for a future condition which never develops, and departing with their lawns and lawns and lawns, leaving the ones who measure every expenditure they make whether it be for raiment or food the body or comfort for the soul, and what they get but by what they spend.

All these are kins. They cannot enjoy today's sun for fear of tomorrow's rain. They will never know the favor of the sound sweet fruit of life for they are marked from their birth with the sign of the specked apple.

A. J. Chambers expects to leave the first of the week for Aylmer, Canada, where he will spend several weeks visiting with his parents. Mr. Chambers will have charge of his livery business during his absence.

The affair is going to be entirely for the boys who are returning and the date has been set where it has been benefited. Another element which has entered into the matter is the weather. It is generally true that if the weather is good, the latter part of July will be a better chance of having nice weather for the affair if staged at that time.

The thing on Grand Avenue will be completed during July, it is expected, the new bath houses at the swimming pool, and the occupancy, and the city in general ready to welcome the boys back in a fitting manner.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY NATIONAL PARK

By John Dickinson Sherman

Endorsed by the Mississippi Valley Association as a Part of "One of the Biggest Economic Moves Ever Launched on the American Continent"

THE Mississippi Valley association endorses the plan to establish the Mississippi Valley National park along the Mississippi river near McGregor, Ia., and Prairie du Chien, Wis.

This action was taken at the first annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley association in Chicago. Five hundred delegates were present from 22 states in the vast basin between the Alleghenies and the Rockies—1,725 square miles, an area about eight times the size of either France or Germany. It is one of the garden spots of the world. A century ago all of it to the west of the Mississippi was an unexplored wilderness. We bought that wilderness from the French in 1803 for $15,000,000. Half a score of states have been carved from that "Louisiana Purchase."

"The whole Mississippi valley contains more than half of our 110,000,000 people.

"We have banded to promote the interests of this big region," said President Harry H. Merrell in his keynote address, "and we are determined nothing shall prevent the accomplishment of our purpose. The Mississippi valley wants certain things. Some of them we shall have to get at Washington. Our 22 states control 52 per cent of the men in congress, and if they don't do what we want they'll be hell to pay and no pilot boat."

The association would reach the valley interests from Chicago and Minneapolis to New Orleans and Galveston; from St. Louis to Kansas City, from Detroit to Denver, and so on and on all along the line, that Mississippi valley means from the Dominion border to the Gulf and from the Alleghenies to the Rockies, and that the easiest way out is not over the Rockies to the Pacific nor via the narrow bottle neck of New York to the Atlantic, but by waterways nature intended for man's use.

Value of National Parks.

"We are putting American citizenship above the dollar," said Honorary President John M. Parker of New Orleans in the opening address. "We are considering conditions brought about by the war. These changed conditions open a new chapter in the history of our valley empire."

The "changed conditions" of which Mr. Parker spoke include the recognition of the national parks of the United States not only as one of the great economic assets of the nation, but also as public playgrounds necessary to the mental, moral and physical welfare of the people. The United States now has 18 national parks. Their standard is high. They contain some of the most magnificent scenery in the world. The system is to be still further enlarged by creating several new parks.

The array of national park enthusiasts will cry with one accord: "Would that the Mississippi Valley association could establish the Mississippi National park as easily as it can its $25,000,000 bank!" But this is one of the things the association will "have to get at Washington," since it can be established only by an act of congress. And congress has no fixed policy regarding the establishment of national parks. It is a platitude to say that politics should be eliminated from the establishment of these public playgrounds. Nevertheless, some of the forest political contests in congress are fought over their creation. By way of example it may be stated that it took six years of persistent effort to pass in 1915 the act creating Rocky Mountain national park, the most popular of all the scenic national parks, and ten years to pass in 1910 the Grand Canyon National park act.

In each case, unofficial leaders of the national park movement say, the influential opposition was the active hostility of the forest service, the bureau of the department of agriculture which has charge of the national forests. The reason for this active hostility is plain. Both these national parks were taken from national forests and national forests are under control of the national park service, a bureau of the department of the interior. The creation of these two national parks thus took away a large area from the control of the forest service and correspondingly weakened its political influence.

The forest service defeated the Greater Yellowstone National park bill in the last congress after it had been passed by the house; brought to naught the Roosevelt National park in the house parks lands committee after it had been passed by the senate, and is opposing the Greater Rocky Mountain National park bill for the addition of Mount Evans.

Students of political conditions predict a showdown between the department of the interior and the department of agriculture in the immediate future.

In the case of Mississippi Valley National park there will be no forest service opposition because the proposed park area is in a national forest; the lands are privately owned and must be ac-

CAUSES OF FOREST FIRES

Instead of adopting the usual assumption that all forest fires not set by lightning are due to human carelessness, G. Raymond, in La Nature, finds several other possible—and very probable—causes. Such fires always occur when the weather is not only dry and hot, but when a wind is added to those conditions. It is quite conceivable that in a dry hot wind the rubbing together of dried resinous branches may develop heat enough to ignite such inflammable material. Another possibility is that minute drops of oxidized resin may act as burning glasses and focus the sun's heat upon spots where fire is easily set. The high temperature noted in the thick mass of decomposing matter under a pine forest suggests that resulting chemical effects may fire resinous powder. A fourth condition present is frictional electricity in pine needles, bits of bark and other material driven about by the wind, and it is reasonable to suppose that this may sometimes start fires. In the Sahara showers of sparks may attend the shaking of a blanket.

Just the Thing.

American Ditty—Of course it is. What else do you suppose I'd have a garden for?

The Panama railroad has used ties made of a native hard wood without renewal for more than half a century.

The extraordinary demand for castor oil as an engine lubricant created a great deal of interest throughout Central America, where the climate and soil are well suited to the production of castor beans. In Nicaragua two large contracts were signed, aggregating 129,000 bushels. The total crop in that country will probably be about 200,000 bushels.

Lure of Art.

"I notice you are glancing through a seed catalogue."

"Yes," replied the dyspeptic. "It came in this morning's mail."

"Thinking of starting a garden?"

"No. I thought that by looking at the pictures I might be able to work up an appetite for a vegetable dinner."

One-Sided Humor.

After the company had gone, Mrs. Mason said to her husband, "What on earth do you mean, John, by telling the Flemings that my humor was positive, but not negative?" "I meant," said Mr. Mason discreetly moving toward the door, "that you could make a joke, but couldn't take one."

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitter-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to atrophied nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitter-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate food elements, bitter-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance of the individual. It is frequently being eaten by those who are in weight and who carry with it a general improvement in the health, nervousness, muscularity and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION: Although bitter-phosphate is unimpaired for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not be used by those who are inclined to gain weight, or by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

"The new modesty," said Clarence Urd-wad, the magazine illustrator, "has a frank quality. It is born of athletic beauty. The old modesty was merely a device to conceal ugliness."

"A beautiful girl in a white bathing dress came out of the water at Palm Beach the other day and advanced over the sand to her mother."

"Dear me!" the mother whispered. "You shouldn't have got white, darling. That suit is almost transparent."

The girl smiled calmly.

Weak From Pain

Mrs. Gibbert Was in Misery, But Doan's Brought Her Splendid Health.

"About 15 years ago my kidneys were in bad condition," says Mrs. Gibbert. "I had a constant dull, bearing-down pain in the small of my back. I could not turn over in bed without such pain I could hardly breathe. Mornings I was stiff, sore and lame all over; my back was like a run."

"Inflammation of the bladder nearly drove me wild. The kidney secretions passed every little while, day and night, and I was a little at a time, and burned like fire. Great quantities of water forced under my eyes."

"I was in such misery I would become so nervous I would scream. I had nerve-racking headaches and the back of my neck would ache. I was so tired I could not sleep. I was so weak I could not get out of bed. I was so weak I could not get out of bed. I was so weak I could not get out of bed."

"Five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble. Since then I have enjoyed splendid health and I owe it all to Doan's."

NEW FASHIONS IN GOWNS AND COATS

Styles as They Are Reflected in the Latest Ideas of Apparel.

MANY PARIS MODES ADOPTED

Evening Coats Vile With Evening Gowns in Their Brilliance—Taffeta Favorite Fabric—Tunics in Evidence.

Fashionable cities of the United States keep their fingers on the pulse of Paris. The mood of the moment expressed on the banks of the Seine is immediately felt by the style diagnosticians on this side of the Atlantic. Every symptom is known, every fashion idea is gauged by the cloth.

Specialists over here say that many of these Paris modes are adopted outright because they spring from a field long fertile with all that is lovely. Many others have to be adapted to the American woman and still others created especially for her.

The wise designer, observes a prominent fashion correspondent, like the true artist, knows what is beautiful and selects it from the myriads of ideas and fabrics which are as conglomerate as a hundred dabs of paint on an artist's palette.

Out of this class of fashion creators with "the know" has arisen the American couturier, who, while keeping a watchful eye on Paris, knows how to create her own models, which rival in loveliness and perfection any importation that France may send over.

With the coming of peace the Parisienne burst into bloom. Like some rare bulb that had lain in dark hibernation awaiting the call of the spring sun, she dazzled the world. Her evening gowns could not be sufficiently brilliant in color to express her mood of joyousness.

Naturally, the American woman, at home with the same joy of victory, followed suit. Brilliance marked every gathering. Jewels were brought from their velvet boxes, and once more the American woman bloomed.

The marvel was how quickly femininity was able to clothe itself in the new and brilliant raiment of joyous peace.

Taffeta Favored for Coats.

Evening coats vile with evening gowns in their brilliance. Taffeta is the favorite fabric for these summer gowns, though baronette satin with its glimmering folds makes exquisite evening wraps. Glace silk, with two tones running in its depth, is found in many of these cuplike garments. Two contrasting layers of chiffon or georgette crepe make delightfully pretty wraps and give sufficient warmth for balmy summer evenings.

These wraps are frequently yoked in the drop shoulder line and the silhouette suggests the old-fashioned dolman, which lends itself perfectly to these modern capes. Crystal tas-sets, or those of silver, gold and jet, trim these garments or act as ornaments on heavy strands of beads that tie the front of the cap together. Pearl and jet are effectively combined in this bead trimming.

The collars of these wraps are sometimes made of the material. They are cut straight, made double, and are gathered and wired at the center back to give the high line reaching nearly to the crown of the head. Fur, especially white fox and skunk, is used with lovely softness on these wraps when a fur collar is needed. The contrast of peltry with silk is always lovely, however inconsistent it may look in summer.

Ostrich feathers are profusely used to trim these evening capes. The graceful fronds of ostrich make the ideal trimming for the summer wrap. They are used on these garments, but not so much as formerly.

A lovely evening wrap is made of georgette pink tulle. A long cape falls loosely over the shoulders, but is cut to wrap snugly around the ankles, giving the narrow silhouette.

COTTON FOR WEAR IN HOME

Fabric Now Popular for Any Place and for the Majority of Occasions.

Silks and woolen goods may be the best choice for the business woman's frocks, but for the housewife the wisest choice whenever possible is in the realm of cotton. The girl who works is not far from the truth. The housewife from home usually does not have opportunity either in time or equipment, to launder her own cotton frocks. If she sends them to the laundry the expense is great and sometimes the frocks are ruined. But the housewife can without much additional time keep her own wash frocks in fresh condition, giving them individual attention that is necessary to keep them from shrinking and wearing out in the wash.

Moreover, the cotton frock is the best selection because usually the housewife wants something that can be washed readily. Even after that hard work of the day is done and she has changed from a house dress to a

Over this cape fall two long, graceful overcoats that hang in points at the back. These points are weighted with giant tassels of pink and pearl beads that dangle from a calyx of jet. Two long strands of pink and pearl beads start from the front under the collar and meet between the shoulders in a head cabochon. A single strand then hangs from this ornament and ends with a tassel on line with the other two.

Tunics characterize evening gowns. This is the natural outcome of the narrow line around the feet. The short tunic, quite full or knife plaited, is used with delightful effect on dance frocks.

A beautiful black and gold evening gown is taken out of all sombreness

by the brilliancy of its trimming. The bodice is black tulle, sleeveless, as most evening gowns are.

The tunic of this gown is serpentine. It is made of black lace flecked with gold. Around the edge of this lace run three bands of vividly contrasting colors, blue, purple and emerald green. Beneath this tunic falls the tight skirt of black charmeuse with a short train. A long sash end is weighted with a tassel of jet and gold. The girle of this gown belongs to the "rainbow division" of girles. Four bands of color, blue, purple and green, are flanked with gold.

A tunic of different length is on the frock, with the underdress of lace ruffles. The gown is particularly picturesque on a young girl. White taffeta is flowered with brilliant pink roses. This material is used for the overskirt and the four triangles which make the bodice. The modest consists of soft cream lace ruffles mounted on a scant petticoat of mousseline.

The girle of this gown is pink taffeta in the same shade as the roses. It is bound with silver ribbon.

Vagaries of Tunics.

A spiral tunic that describes a double line is the distinctive mark of an evening dress which is chiffon. In the shade of rose that carries a violet tone in its threads. This very unusual shade is combined with turquoise blue. The bodice is made of rose chiffon with a surplice of flesh pink. A tunic of rose chiffon overlaps another of turquoise blue. This same idea is repeated in the sleeves, where turquoise blue shows beneath the rose sleeve which is cut very short. Tiny rows of silver gauze ribbon run on both of these tunics and tie the sleeve.

The girle of this varicolored gown is rose chiffon and it is striped with two geranium pink ribbons and one of turquoise blue, the center line being blue. These ribbons tie at the left side and the three ends hang in varied lengths.

The skirt of this frock reaches to the ankles and is draped in a slightly bias line to conform to the swirl of the tunics.

SOME Dainty EVENING GOWNS

Metal and Beaded Nets Afford Elegant Costumes for Wear on Formal Occasions.

Never were such gleaming, glittering materials used for evening gowns. There are metal and bead embroidered nets, metal brocades, heavily spangled and jetted nets, lustrous satins and rare laces. No fabric seems too costly to put into this season's evening gown and if one cannot afford a gleaming costume, one must "go in" for diaphanous, dainty gowns that carry a gleam. The simple stand out with noticeable distinction among the glittering creations roundabout.

Such a trick has been tried with a black satin dinner frock, which has tulle wings at either side of the skirt and garlands of flowers attached in swirling manner to skirt and bodice. The simple dress frock is interesting and it has the new, perfectly flat back, with a train falling from shoulder to floor. Over this train of blue and silver brocade floats a light drapery of black lace, and the same lace is draped over the arms and falls in scarf ends at the front.

dainty afternoon dress, there must be trips to the kitchen. And anyone knows who has tried to work in the kitchen in a silk frock that even with the greatest precaution spots do come. With the cotton frock it is not of much moment.

There have been times when we felt that our "best" dresses really ought to be of silk. But that was when silk was very much cheaper than cotton. Now the fact that cotton is not far from the truth. The housewife from home usually does not have opportunity either in time or equipment, to launder her own cotton frocks. If she sends them to the laundry the expense is great and sometimes the frocks are ruined. But the housewife can without much additional time keep her own wash frocks in fresh condition, giving them individual attention that is necessary to keep them from shrinking and wearing out in the wash.

THINK DOCTOR IS MISTREATING BOY

Physician, on Errand of Mercy, Is Beaten by Angry Italian Women.

MOTHER GRABS CLUB

Beats Doctor Who Is Trying to Give Sick Lad Pills—Neighbors Take Hand in the Proceedings—Rescued by Autoist.

Chicago—While on an errand of mercy in the Italian district, Dr. James E. Smedley, a well-known north side physician and volunteer Red Cross worker, was clubbed into unconsciousness by a crowd of excited women, who believed he was mistreating his patient, a little boy.

The physician is recovering from scalp wounds at his residence, under the care of his wife, a graduate nurse. He is 60 years old, but of powerful physique.

After being rejected for the army Dr. Smedley offered his services to the local Red Cross organization. For months he has given his time to charity cases, often being called from his bed late at night.

Get Emergency Call.

One day recently he received an emergency call to 1212 Vine street, where Tony, the little son of Mrs. Mary Canino, was ill. It looked like diphtheria.

The doctor took the boy on his knee and pinched his cheek. Then he tried to slip some pills into the lad's mouth, but his patient became rebellious.

"Come, now, be a good boy," urged the doctor. "They'll make you feel better."

Tony still refused.

Then the physician resorted to the customary expedient of holding the boy's nose, thus forcing him to open his mouth and swallow the pellets.

Mother Clubs Doctor.

The mother, who had been friendly, suddenly became infuriated. She Struck Doctor Smedley on the Head. Screamed, seized a club and struck Dr. Smedley on the head. He fell to the floor stunned.

Again and again the heavy club descended. Her screams brought several women to the house. They took a hand at the clubbing. Then they locked him in the house and left, presumably to seek some of the male neighbors to wreak further vengeance.

The physician, bleeding profusely from the nose and from deep scalp lacerations, finally broke a window and hailed a passing autoist, who helped him out and took him home.

"The woman simply didn't understand, that was all," said Dr. Smedley. "She thought I was trying to hurt the boy."

BUY DOGS TO CHASE CONVICTS

Police Hounds Are to Be Used on Sing Sing Farm to Run Down Escaping Prisoners.

New York.—For the purpose of chasing convicts who escape from Sing Sing's farm at Windale, Capt. J. A. Warner of the state constabulary has installed two mammoth police dogs in the Brewster mobilization station.

Sgt. Charles Brandel, in charge of the state troopers there, believes the dogs will be able to scent the trail of the escaping prisoners who flee from the farm, overtake and capture them.

Warner has lost seven prisoners from Windale in the last two years. William Thomas, one of the fugitives, was trailed as far as Brooklyn several weeks ago and is still hiding there.

The police dogs were given to the constabulary by Mrs. L. F. Warner, who had them on her entry place near Hempstead.

On two occasions the dogs have stolen the prisoner's watchdog by bribing it with meat and also stole a horse and rig.

Court Relieves Him.

Boston.—Arthur M. Loomis nearly went crazy because his friends rubbed in the fact that he was "lame." The courts decided he may use the name Loomis.

Steals Saloon by Piece.

Kansas City, Mo.—James Montgomery Irvine systematically removed a saloon to his home, bottle by bottle. Police found beer, gin, whisky and wine secreted in flooring and furniture. He was the porter.

Made Him Nervous.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Charles Benton heard his wife's voice just as he pressed the trigger of the revolver held against his side. Charles became nervous, the shot went wild, and he's now charged with disorderly conduct.

Got Her Rights.

New York.—Dorothy Bloom, twenty-two, arrested for speeding, told the court she had a vote and the same "rights" as a man. And the same "responsibilities," amended Magistrate Walsh, assessing her a man-sized fine.

Revelry by Night.

Springfield, Ill.—Nocturnal concerts don't appeal to Sheriff Mosier. When jolity ran high in the county last night he sallied forth. He found a saw-and-crowbar crew working on the bark.

Apply a few drops of "Freezone"—No pain!

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

"Them gaudy houses at the trainin' camp is trash-dove a gran' work, jes' like the Red Cross," observed Cindy, the colored landlady. "They saved mah boy Duke's life."

"How is that, Cindy?" queried her employer.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit.

The kidneys are the most overworked organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly acids accumulate and crystallize look out! These sharp crystals tear and scratch the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism. Do not wait until the danger is upon you to after the cause at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL HAMMILL OIL Capsules, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They will give almost immediate relief. If for any cause they should not, your money will be refunded. But be sure to get GOLD MEDAL. None other is genuine. In sealed boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Knocking the Judge.

A discouraged counsellor remarked to the court, "My poor client is little likely to get justice done her until the judgment day."

"Well, counsellor," said the judge, "if I have an opportunity I'll plead for the poor woman myself on that day."

"Your honor," replied the other, "will have troubles of your own upon that day."

Important to Mothers.

Revising the Revenues.

"The glasses are very small," exclaimed on girl.

"Yes," replied the other. "The luxury tax ought to pay for the ice cream soda and the rest of the money ought to go to the government."

One or the Other.

Needn't—Why don't you pay your debts? You've got the money.

Quem—Yes, but I wouldn't have it if I was to pay my debts.

Ancient Precautions.

"We'll have this friendly agreement of ours carved upon a monument of stone," said one ancient king.

"So that all the public can read it," added the other.

"Not only that. It will make it impossible to treat it as a scrap of paper."

Venial Crime.

"Punkryter tells me that he has killed the hero of his new novel."

"Well, he needn't worry about that—any jury will acquit him."

The Manager—There'll be a big crowd today. The soldiers and sailors are to be admitted free.

The Umpire—Aw, nix, nix! Have a heart. Let in the gobs, but keep out the doughboys. Those guys are the champion grenade throwers of the army, and every one'll have a pop bottle.

"How can he when he's bald?"

The Pipeless Furnace —PLUS

A Customer Wrote to Us Lately, as Follows:

"I want you to make clear to me how I am going to heat my bathroom with your pipeless furnace, when the room is closed. I am heating it now with an oil stove, but when I put in a furnace next fall, I expect it, at least, to warm the bathroom; for the others, a pipeless will be all right. I like your furnace, but you will have to show me how, and what it will cost me, to get what I want, or there will be nothing doing."

We Answered This Question Before It Was Asked by designing and patenting an attachment so any detached room may be heated from a pipeless furnace. This consists of a separate heating and return-air compartment in the furnace, which may be connected by a separate pipe, to the detached room. A damper, operated from the front of the furnace, throws the heat into the detached room, or allows it to come thru the main central register, as may be desired. Because of this valuable improvement in the pipeless furnaces, we are sending our heaters to New England, and other distant sections, where distance might be supposed to limit the sale of our heaters.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitter-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless prescriptions and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to stunted nerves. Our bodies need more phosphorus than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphorus food element, bitro-phosphate should produce a weak ones transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a marked improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is advertised for relieving nervousness, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

"The new modesty," said Clarence Underwood, the magazine illustrator, "is a frank quality. It is born of self-knowledge. The old modesty was merely a device to conceal ugliness."

Weak From Pain

Mrs. Gibbert Was in Misery, But Doan's Brought Her Splendid Health.

"About a year ago my kidneys were in bad condition," says Mrs. Lucy Gibbert, 13310 Columbia Ave., Harvey, Ill. "There was a constant dull, beating down pain in the small of my back. I couldn't turn over in bed without such pain I could hardly breathe. Mornings I was stiff, and I had lame all over; my back was like a rusty hinge."

"Inflammation of the bladder nearly drove me wild. The kidney secretions passed every little while, day and night, and I was a little at a time, and I burned like fire. Great waves of water formed under my eyes."

"I was in such misery I would become weak and nervous. I would tremble. I had no more sleep. Headaches and a back of my neck pained me. I was so dizzy I didn't dare bend over for fear of falling on my face. My sight became blurred. I was sick all over."

"Five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble. Since then I have enjoyed splendid health and I owe it all to Doan's."

NEW FASHIONS IN GOWNS AND COATS

Styles as They are Reflected in the Latest Ideas of Apparel.

MANY PARIS MODES ADOPTED

Evening Coats Vie With Evening Gowns in Their Brilliance—Tulle Favorite Fabric—Tulle in Evidence.

Fashionable ellipses of the United States keep their fingers on the pulse of Paris. The mood of the moment expressed on the banks of the Seine is immediately felt by the style dictators on this side of the Atlantic. Every symptom is known, every fashion idea is gauged by the cloth specialists over here.

Many of these Paris modes are adopted outright because they spring from a field long fertile with all that is lovely. Many others have to be adapted to the American woman and still others created especially for her.

The wise designer, observes a prominent fashion correspondent, like the true artist, knows what is beautiful and selects it from the myriads of ideas and fabrics which are as conglomerate as a hundred daisies of paint on an artist's palette.

Out of this chaos of fashion creators with "the know" has arisen the American couturier, who, while keeping a watchful eye on Paris, knows how to create her own models, which rival in loveliness and perfection any importation that France may send over.

With the coming of peace the Parisienne burst into bloom. Like some rare bulb that had lain in dark hibernation awaiting the call of the spring sun, she displayed the world's first evening gowns could not be sufficiently brilliant in color to express her mood of joyousness.

Naturally, the American woman, attune with the same joy of victory, followed suit. Brilliance marked every gathering. Jewels were brought from their velvet boxes, and once more the American woman bloomed. The marvel was how quickly femininity was able to clothe itself in the new and brilliant raiment of joyous peace.

Taffeta Favored for Coats.

Evening coats, with evening gowns to their brilliancy, taffeta is the favorite fabric for these summer months. Though burrnetta satin with its shimmering folds makes exquisite evening wraps. Glace silk, with two times running in its depth, is found in many of these capricious garments. Two contrasting layers of chiffon or georgette make delightfully pretty wraps and give sufficient warmth for balmy summer evenings.

These wraps are frequently yoked in the drop shoulder line and the silhouette suggests the old-fashioned duster, which lends itself perfectly to these modern cups. Crystal and

Over this cape fall two long, graceful overcoats that hang in points at the back. These points are weighted with giant tassels of pink and pearl beads that dangle from a calyx of jet. Two long strands of pink and pearl beads start from the front under the collar and meet between the shoulders in a bead cauchon. A single strand then hangs from this ornament and ends with a tassel on line with the other two. Tulle characterizes evening gowns. This is the natural outcome of the narrow line around the feet. The short tunic, quite full or knife plated, is used with delightful effect on dance frocks.

A beautiful black and gold evening gown is taken out of all somberness

by the brilliancy of its trimming. The bodice is black tulle, sleeveless, as most evening gowns are.

The tunic of this gown is serpentine. It is made of black lace flecked with gold. Around the edge of this lace run three bands of vividly contrasting colors, blue, purple and emerald green. Beneath this tulle falls the light skirt of black charmeuse with a short train. A long sash end is weighted with a tassel of jet and gold. The grille of this gown belongs to the "rainbow division" of grilles. Four bands of color, blue, purple and green, are flanked with gold and black. A tunic of different length is on the frock, with the underlength of lace ruffles. This gown is particularly picturesque on a young girl. White tulle is flowered with brilliant pink roses. This material is used for the overskirt and the four triangles which make the bodice. The moderate consists of soft cream lace ruffles mounted on flesh-colored mousseline. The ruffled underskirt is likewise mounted on a semi-petulant of mousseline.

The grille of this gown is pink tulle in the same shade as the roses. It is bound with silver ribbon.

Vagaries of Tunes.

A spirit tune that describes a double line is the distinctive mark of an evening dress which is chiffon in the shade of rose that carries a violet tone in the threads. This very unusual shade is combined with turquoise blue. The bodice is made of rose chiffon with a surplice of fresh pink. A tunic of rose chiffon overlaps another of turquoise blue. This same idea is repeated in the sleeves, where turquoise blue shows beneath the rose sleeve which is cut very short. Tiny rows of silver gauze ribbon run on both of these tunics and tie the sleeve.

The grille of this varicolored gown is rose chiffon and it is strapped with two gemstone pink ribbons and one of turquoise blue, the center line being blue. These ribbons tie at the left side and the three ends hang to varied lengths.

The skirt of this frock reaches to the ankles and is draped in a slightly bias line to conform to the swirl of the tunic.

SOME DAINTY EVENING GOWNS

Metal and Beaded Nets Afford Elegant Costumes for Wear on Formal Occasions.

Never were such gleaming, glittering materials used for evening gowns. There are metal and bead embroidered nets, metal brocades, heavily spangled and jetted nets, lustrous satins and pure laces. No fabric seems too costly to put into this season's evening gown and if one cannot afford a gleaming costume, one must try to get the most out of a simple dress.

A lovely evening wrap is made of georgette plaid tulle. A long cape falls loosely over the shoulders, but is cut to wrap snugly around the ankles, giving the narrow silhouette.

COTTON FOR WEAR IN HOME

Fabric Now Popular for Any Place and for the Majority of Occasions.

Silks and woolen goods may be the best choice for the business woman's frocks, but for the housewife the wisest choice whenever possible is in the realm of cotton. And the reason is not far to seek. The girl who works away from home usually does not have opportunity either in time or equipment, to launder her own cotton frocks. If she sends them to the laundry the expense is great and sometimes the frocks are ruined. But the housewife can without much additional time keep her own wash frocks in fresh condition, giving them that individual attention that is necessary to keep them from shrinking and wrinkling out in the wash.

Moreover, the cotton frock is the best selection because usually the housewife wants something that can be washed readily. Even after the hard work of the day is done and she has changed from a house dress to a dainty afternoon dress, there must be trips to the kitchen. And anyone knows who has tried to work in the kitchen in a silk frock that even with the greatest precaution spots do come. With the cotton frock it is not of much moment.

There have been times when we felt that our "best" dresses really ought to be of silk. But that was when silk was very much cheaper than cotton. Now the fact that cotton is quite expensive has somehow made us feel that cotton is good enough for our occasion and surely the present weaves and designs are quite good to look at as are the silks. A dark blue and white printed voile makes every bit as attractive a frock for church in summer as does a tulle.

Imported Gingham.

Gingham will be just as popular this year as it was last. More so, in fact, because the imported material has been brought over in great quantities, though the price has not dropped. These imported gingham retail for about three times the sum at which they sold before the war.

THE BILL BOARD BUGABOO
A matter that seems to be agitating the minds of the ladies of the Federation just at the present time is the epidemic of billboard advertising that is swooping over the city with as much virulence and persistency as the whooping cough or measles when once they get started among the youngsters of the city. Just why this kind of advertising should take such a start at the present time is not known, but it is well and seems to be growing right along, and the ladies are excited in proportion to magnitude of the proposition.

We are willing to admit that the average newspaper man is not much in favor of billboard advertising, although we will admit that it is better than no advertising at all. However, it must pay, or else all the large concerns of the country would not use it to such an extent after all the years of experience they have had in the matter.

From an artistic viewpoint it may not amount to a great deal, as the one idea seems to be to attract attention to the exclusion of all others, but if one will take the trouble to stop on the city streets and look at the bill boards and look up and down the thoroughfare and note the billboards in sight he can hardly help noticing that there are many structures that are so much unsightly and unbecoming to the city that they are a disgrace to the city.

WANT A NEW CALENDAR
Now that we have the Germans subdued, the potatoes all in and the hay is about ready to cut, the next thing that comes up for consideration and which is the revelation of the calendar.

It may not have occurred to some of the dear people that the present calendar is a very crude affair when compared with the modern calendar, such as the many calendars, perfecting presses, in many another contrivance now in use by the human family, but such is the case nevertheless. Many of us would not be able to tell how many days there are in a certain month were it not for that old rhyme which runs "Thirty days hath September" etc., and in view of this fact and several others it is now proposed to alter things so that anybody will be able to tell how many days there are in any month of the year, and what day a certain date falls upon, no matter what month it is now what year, for that matter.

The company is building a nice place for the accommodation of the employees where they can eat, smoke and spend their noon hour. Lester Rayzone who just returned from overseas spent a few days at the A. L. Akoy home and took in the sights at the mill.

Yonnet McGraith spent a few days at the Point the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Roebelen were in our burg a few times the past week.

During the summer of 1918, the municipal swimming pool was a great attraction and on hot days it was frequented by appreciative citizens. Not only the boys and girls of school age, but women and men from stores and factories made good use of this equipment. Automobile parties from Muskegon, Stovens Point and other cities drove to Grand Rapids on summer occasions to participate in this enjoyment, and citizens of neighboring villages were seen at the pool almost every day.

the hours when it was in use. The water is drawn out every night and is filled the next morning. There is a constant outlet of water over the top of the gate at the south end, and thus the impurities which naturally float on the surface, are carried away in this continuous circulation of water. This guarantees a clean supply without creating a current which is dangerous.

There is a great present day movement along the line of public parks, playgrounds and recreation places of all kinds. To improve and beautify the city by a swimming pool would be in harmony with this general movement, in fact there is a great demand for such improvement on the part of the people of this city, who have observed and participated in the enjoyment of these facilities have already afforded.

To satisfy this demand, a considerable amount of work is necessary. The plans are already under way for the immediate construction of two new public houses and for the making of a public park and play ground of the adjacent lands fronting the river.

Plenty of opportunity to name schools after war heroes is afforded in a new school law just signed by the governor which requires that every school shall receive an official designation at the next annual meeting of the electors of the district. The electors may designate their first and second choice, and if they fail to do so, the directors are required to choose a name within ten days after the annual meeting.

If two or more schools choose the same name, the superintendent decides in favor of the district first making its report. A school having a name by which it has been known several years, receives preference. If a name is rejected, the school board is required to select another. A track name, or generally unsuitable name, is another type on which the superintendent has the right to reject. Should a district make an error in naming, the superintendent may change the school, but the electors may change it at the ensuing annual meeting.

One subject of the act is to provide mail service for schools. When a name is decided on, the board is required to provide a mail box and notify the postmaster on whose rural delivery routes the school is located.

TRAIN UP AT MARSHFIELD SEVERES YOUNG MAN'S LEG

Marshfield Herald.—A young man, giving his name as Hansen and his home address Chicago, was run over Wednesday night by a Northwestern passenger car in this city. His right leg was so badly crushed below the knee that it had to be amputated. Hansen with three others had taken lodging in an empty box car which stood on a side track. During the night a switch engine hitched onto the car to move it to another track. When the car began moving, the four men jumped out and in doing so Hansen fell under the wheels with the above result. The men came here the day previous from Stratford where they had been working on the railroad. Hansen was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where he is being cared for.

"MILLADORE" THE HIGHBROW

No one would think, from a casual observation of Milladore to the north-east of us, that the name was chosen because a man read an old English novel in which Lord Swilthorn, of Milladore, wooed and all but wed Lady Highlow—but it's so.

Orlow A. Everts came to Milladore as his station agent when the place was called Mill Creek. He didn't like the sound of the name and remembering the name "Milladore," of which he had read, proposed that. A son of Brian, also a resident of the place, wanted the name changed to "Branston," but Everts won out on account of his high prestige in the community. He is still in railroad employ and recently celebrated his golden wedding at Ashland. It was during the wedding festivities that the anecdote of the naming of the Wood County town came to light.

BIGGEST SIGN IN WORLD ON STATE CAPITOL

Madison, Wis.—The new state capitol building has the largest electric sign in the world. It is eight feet high and completely circles the huge dome of the capitol, 208 feet in circumference. The sign reads, "Wisconsin Welcomes her Soldiers and Sailors, Marines, Nurses." It will be illuminated by 2,850 red lights at night. Nearly 2,500 feet of lumber was used in building it.

CROP FOR OLD CORNERS IN BUCKWHEAT, SAYS MOORE

It A. Moore, agronomist at the Wisconsin Experiment station, calls buckwheat the Wisconsin farmer's handy crop. It can be put in newly cleared land that is not ready to grow corn. It can take the place of some crop that has registered failure by that date, corn and other cereals have failed to thrive.

It is a crop that needs a good drainage, but it does well on marsh land which has been broken after drainage. It helps decay the vegetable matter on any new soil. Clover and grass seedlings can be put in with buckwheat as it is a good nurse crop. This handy plant is also a great weed killer and a moisture holding crop on sandy lands.

Buckwheat is just as obliging as to time sowing. Although it can be matured in southern Wisconsin if sown at any time up to July 1, it is better to sow it from June 10 to June 25 to escape the heavy fall frosts. The crop needs no attention from sowing to harvest time.

Combined with this general lack of squeamishness, buckwheat is the ideal crop of being easy to market. Usually there is a good local market. Wisconsin millers buy a large part of their grain from New York and Pennsylvania. It is very difficult in finding a market, the experiment station at Madison can supply the necessary information.

WATCH YOUR SPUDS FOR POTATO WART

Keep a sharp lookout for potato wart this season and report all suspicious cases and send specimens immediately to your county agent or state experiment station or the United States Department of Agriculture, and thus aid in controlling this menace. If this dangerous new disease gets established it will put a stop to potato growing in this state and lead to a quarantine of the locality. At present potato wart has appeared only in a few gardens in mining sections of Pennsylvania, which are under strict quarantine. It reached there in a shipment of European potatoes in 1911 or earlier. Thirteen million bushels came in that year and since then it may have been infected; consequently every potato grower is urged to watch his spuds, particularly at digging time, for signs of small early growth, particularly at the eyes. These growths may increase until ultimately the entire tuber becomes a spongy, warty mass. The United States Department of Agriculture has published a circular which describes the wart disease.

Plenty of opportunity to name schools after war heroes is afforded in a new school law just signed by the governor which requires that every school shall receive an official designation at the next annual meeting of the electors of the district. The electors may designate their first and second choices, and if they fail to do so, the directors are required to choose a name within ten days after the annual meeting.

If two or more schools choose the same name, the superintendent decides in favor of the district first making its report. A school having a name by which it has been known several years, receives preference. If a name is rejected, the school board is required to select another.

A track name, or generally unsuitable name, is another type on which the superintendent has the right to reject. Should a district make an entire failure, the superintendent may name the school, but the electors may change it at the ensuing annual meeting.

One subject of the act is to provide mail service for schools. When the name is decided on, the board is required to provide a mail box and notify the postmaster on whose rural delivery routes the school is located.

TRAIN UP AT MARSHFIELD SEVERN YOUNG MAN'S LEG

Marshfield Herald.—A young man, giving his name as Hansen and his home address Chicago, was run over Wednesday night by a Northwestern box car in this city. His right leg was so badly crushed below the knee that it had to be amputated. Hansen with three others had taken lodging in an empty box car which stood on a side track. During the night a switch engine hatched onto the car to move it to another track. When the car began moving, the four men jumped out and in doing so Hansen fell under the wheels with the above result. The men came here the day previous from Stamford where they had been working on the railroad. Hansen was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is being cared for.

"MILLADORE" THE HIGHBROW

No one would think, from a casual observation of Milladore, to the northeast of us, that the name was chosen because a man read an old English novel in which Lord Swellheart, of Milladore, loved and all but wed Lady Highbrow. But it's so.

"HOME"

The most cherished word in the English language is "HOME". For home indeed is the bulwark of our national unity. And now, more than at any time in America's history is its significance paramount.

It was the stimulus for America's remarkable achievement in the last two years. It was the inspiration for the noble deeds of our boys in France, for which they ask no greater reward than that they may forget the blight of war in the peace and joy of home.

"Own your own home" should be an American slogan.

Put this question to your family tonight—
"Shall we build a home?" and take a vote. It will be carried unanimously.

Building Costs Must Come Down—NOT

There is not a bit of use in "waiting for building prices to come down" as some folks are doing. The biggest economists in the country say that prices won't come down because they can't come down.

Conditions of labor, money and credit are such that we are in for permanent high prices in all lines. We might just as well get used to it and get busy with building. Come on—let's DO IT!

P. S. Building prices have advanced only 1/4 to 1/2 what other things have, farm products and wages, for instance. They may go higher. GET BUSY.

MEDICAL SCIENCE

KEEPS YANK ALIVE

Chicago—"You ask me what is the most vivid memory I have after three years of Red Cross work in France and England. I will tell you.

The speaker is a young woman who saw the war in field and base hospital, her father a famous American surgeon, a young woman whose hands bathed the forehead of dy- ing men and whose arms held the bodies of young men to moan their last goodbye.

"I saw a man who lingered for weeks and came out alive, with his nose and mouth away," she said. "Science will be able to give him something that looks like a new nose. But the lips of the man, torn away by a shell piece, cannot be fixed any way at all.

"You have seen the grin of a skull where the lips that cover the teeth are gone. That is the picture the soldier makes all his life. It is his destiny to go with a terrible unwilling laughter on his face—like Tugus's laughing man.

"I did not hear his story, but I wondered often whether he had a sweetheart or a mother and friends back in the old home town, and what his home-coming would be like.

"It was hard to make me cry. Months of grilling experience had steeled me against suffering. But when this man's face flashed before me on the hospital cot where science had pulled him through alive, when I saw his face with its rank of involuntary laughter, the whole thing just sort of snatched at my heart. I had to gulp and clutch my fists to keep from crying. You probably saw a Red Cross worker is not much good if she gets the habit of crying."

ANARCHIST BOMBS KILL FIVE PERSONS

Explosions in Eight Cities Cause
Much Property Damage.

PUBLIC OFFICERS NEAR DEATH

Attorney General Palmer and Senator
Swanson Badly Shaken by Blast
Which Wreck Their Homes
in Washington, D. C.

Washington, June 3.—A series of bombs, aimed at law enforcement officials, were exploded almost simultaneously in widely separated sections of the country late Monday night. Five persons were killed.

Public officials among whose lives attempts were made were:

In Washington: A. Mitchell Palmer, United States attorney general. One person supposed to have been the bomb thrower, was killed. Police think a second person was killed.

Claude A. Swanson, United States senator from Virginia.

In Boston: Justice Albert P. Thayer of the Roxbury municipal court, was killed. Two others may have been killed.

In Pittsburg: Federal Judge William H. Thompson.

W. W. Silvery, chief inspector of the bureau of immigration.

In New York: Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., of the court of general sessions. One person is known to have been killed. Two others may have been killed.

In New Haven, Conn.: Representative Leland W. Powers of the state legislature.

Other bombs were thrown in Philadelphia and Paterson, N. J.

Officials are trying to connect the bombs which were sent by mail to 36 officials in every section. Monday night's bombs were not mailed. Those responsible for the outrages placed them at the homes of those they sought to assassinate.

Seek to Kill Palmer.
The Washington bomb was thrown into the residence of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, 2132 R street.

Mr. Palmer has been the leader in the prosecution of radicals. Previously he was enemy property custodian.

The lower part of the Palmer residence was wrecked. None of the family was injured, as all were on the upper floors.

The explosion seriously damaged the home of Senator Swanson of Virginia, next door.

The bomb, the police said, was contained in a suitcase filled with clothing. The contents of this suitcase and in handbill signed "The Anarchists Fight," printed on red paper, were in inflammatory fashion, and seeking notice of intent of its authors to begin general war on society, was the only clue available.

Dictionary Is Found.
An Anglo-American dictionary was found in the street near the tented from this and the fact that the dark spots of portions of the flesh of fragments of the body found there is a composition among the officials to believe that perhaps Italian Reds were responsible for the crime, though the Italian-American dictionary may have been dropped as a ruse.

One or two persons near the spot claimed to have heard two explosions, but most people reported only one.

Representative Ira C. Copely of Illinois, who lives at 2201 R street, also had the front windows of his house smashed. This showed the force of the explosion for Mr. Copely lives in the block between Twenty-second and Sherburne streets, while the Palmer house stands in the block between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets.

Another Home Damaged.
The home of James R. Milerson at 2131 R street, next to Attorney General Palmer's residence, was almost as badly damaged as that of Mr. Palmer.

The neighborhood, which was at once roped off by the police on their arrival shortly before midnight, is in what is known as the worst end of Washington.

Between Du Pont and Sheridan circles, where there are many mansions, in which live officials, army, and navy officers, society folk, diplomats, and members of congress.

When reports began to come in of similar outrages in other parts of the country, Major Pullman, superintendent of the capital police, sent special guards to residence of cabinet officers and other prominent officials.

Secret service agents studied intently reports received here from other cities, and when it was found that the handbills found in Washington corresponded textually with others picked up in Boston, their first opinion that the plots were connected was confirmed, they said. They awaited eagerly clues which might be picked up in other cities.

Property Under Guard.
Washington is practically under martial law. A number of military police and other soldiers who were available were pressed into service to aid in guarding the property and in patrolling streets where prominent persons live.

A special detail has been placed about the White House grounds, the treasury, and in the war and navy departments.

The situation is considered too dangerous a one for officials here and for the nation at large to assume that the man who placed this bomb was killed and the authorities here are not going on the theory that the perpetrator of this particular one of the whole series of bomb explosions throughout the country is out of the way.

New York Bomb Kills.
New York, June 3.—An attempt early this morning to blow up Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. of the court of General Sessions resulted in the death of at least one person and possibly three.

A bomb, which was planted beneath the entrance of Judge Nott's residence exploded at 12:35 a. m.

Agents of the state department bureau of combustibles reported that they had found portions of one or more bodies buried beneath the debris. The torso of one of the victims apparently was that of a woman. Bits of male clothing and a false mustache also were found in the debris.

Post-mortem men passed the Nott residence shortly before the explosion told the police they had observed two women sitting on the stoop.

Building Front Blast Out.
According to an ambulance surgeon, the woman killed apparently was about 60 years old. The police think that she had been passing by the house when the machine went off. The surgeon said she must have been struck by a portion of the brown-stone wall of the front story, which was thrown almost across the street.

Judge Nott was absent at the time of the explosion. Mrs. Nott, the daughter of a prominent New York family, her wife and daughter were in the house, but were not injured.

The explosion completely wrecked the entrance of the Nott residence and shattered windows in houses for several hundred feet.

Portions of bodies were hurled several hundred feet by the explosion. A man's skull was picked up in Lexington avenue, nearly a half block from the Nott residence. Portions of a body were blown through the windows of an army officers' club across the street into a room where Lieut. A. H. Martin was sleeping. Other human fragments were blown into the entrance of the home of Supreme Court Judge R. F. Lydon, next door.

Inspector Owen Egan of the bureau of combustibles said that in his opinion the explosive used was dynamite. Army officers in the club across the street, however, said that the odor indicated that trinitrotoluol had been used.

In addition to a general shattering of glass in the neighborhood, the home of Judge Lydon on one side and that of Dr. John J. McKay on the other side of the Nott residence were badly damaged.

Judge Nott was, for eight years an assistant district attorney on the staff of William Travers Jerome. He was held over when former Gov. Charles S. Whitman succeeded District Attorney Jerome and prosecuted many of the first degree murder trials that took place while Mr. Whitman held the post.

OTHER MURDER ATTEMPTS.
Cleveland, O., June 3.—An attempt was made to blow up the home of Mayor Henry L. Davis here last night. No one was injured, but a part of the house was wrecked. First reports were that it was a gas explosion, but police later declared it a bomb or incendiary machine had been placed.

Near Judge's Home.
Pittsburgh, Pa., June 3.—A bomb explosion, which occurred two doors from the residence of United States District Judge W. H. Thompson late last night, damaged the residence of the jurist and other houses in the vicinity. The homes of three prominent businessmen of the city were damaged by the force of the explosion.

Shortly before midnight and a few minutes after the bomb explosion in the Highland district there was another bomb explosion in the west end residential district, near the home of W. D. Silvery, chief inspector of the bureau of immigration. Silvery has been active in the work which has led to deportation of enemy aliens, and the police express the belief that the bomb was intended for him.

Blast in Boston.
Boston, Mass., June 3.—The home of Justice Albert P. Thayer of the Roxbury municipal court at 11 Wayne street, was severely damaged by an explosion of unknown origin shortly before midnight Monday. No one was in the house at the time, the judge and his family being at their summer home at the seashore.

Try to Stop Legislature.
Newtownville, Mass., June 3.—The residence of Leland W. Powers, Massachusetts state representative and son of the late member of congress, was badly damaged by a bomb last night. No one was injured.

Two Bombs in Philadelphia.
Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—Bombs were thrown late last night by two men in an automobile at the rectory of the Catholic Church of Our Lady of Victory, in West Philadelphia, and at the home of Louis Jagelky, a jeweler, eight blocks away. The rectory was badly damaged and plate glass windows in the church shattered. A woman and young girl who were passing the church were slightly injured.

The front was torn out of Jagelky's house by the other explosion and a Mrs. Lettitt, who resided there, was seriously injured.

Assail Silk Maker.
Paterson, N. J., June 3.—An explosion, which the police believe to have been caused by a bomb, wrecked the home of Max Gold, silk manufacturer, 331 East Third street, at 12:30 o'clock this morning, partially wrecked an adjoining house, and broke the front door and windows of a residence across the street. Most of the houses within a radius of 200 feet had windows broken.

PLAYING CARDS.
Although it is commonly reported that playing cards were invented in France in 1352 to divert Charles VI, D'Alenconne, a French writer on the subject mentions them as being in use in Belgium in 1870, and probably sounding analogous to them—marked discs or counters—have been employed in the East from remote antiquity. It is now usually thought that it was in Italy playing cards were first made, about 1370, and at Venice.

Kindliness Appreciated.
What a comfort a dull but kindly person is, to be sure, at times! A ground glass shade over a gas lamp does not bring more solace to our dazzled eyes than such a one to our minds.—Holmes.

Ship Tonnage.
Tonnage is the internal cubic capacity of a vessel expressed in tons, now reckoned at 100 cubic feet each; or the freight-carrying capacity of a vessel, as estimated in tons of 40 cubic feet each.

AUSTRIA STRIPPED BY PEACE TERMS

Huge Territory Is Cut From Former Monarchy.

FOLLOWS THE GERMAN PACT

44,000,000 Nationals Taken Away—
Head of Enemy Delegation Says
He Will Work for Peace on Allies' Basis.

St. Germain, France, June 4.—Fifteen days were given to Austria on Monday to reply to the terms of peace presented by the allied nations in the Stone Age room in the old palace at St. Germain.

M. Clemenceau, president of the peace conference, was the first prominent figure to arrive at the meeting at which the terms of peace were presented.

Secretary Lansing and Henry White were the first American representatives to arrive, Premier Orlando of Italy and Premier Paderewski of Poland and Arthur J. Balfour following. Col. E. M. House was the only member of the American delegation not present.

In addition to the conference representatives of the allied and associated powers there were present many distinguished persons, including Marshal Foch, General Bliss, Admiral Benson and American Ambassador Wallace.

Wilson Delays Proceedings.
President Wilson delayed the ceremony of presentation. He reached St. Germain at 12:15. A puncture of the tire of his automobile held him up on the way.

The Austrian representatives arrived at 12:22 o'clock, entering the chamber by a rear entrance. The delegates were seated in conventional morning dress.

The Austrians were escorted in by an Italian officer.

Immediately upon their arrival at 12:22 p. m. the session was opened formally by announcement of the head usher, Premier Clemenceau, president of the peace conference, at once began his address.

Clemenceau spoke in French. His remarks were translated into English, then into Italian and then into German. He spoke only three minutes.

Rudolf Dürig, general secretary of the peace conference, presented the terms to the Austrians at 12:37.

Dr. Karl Renner, the Austrian chancellor and head of the delegation, then began an address in French.

Dr. Renner promised loyalty to do his best to work out a peace on the basis presented. "Our state rests in your hands," said Dr. Renner following the presentation of the allies' terms, "and we hope before the conclusion of the world that the allies will not abuse this power."

The entire peace treaty was not presented to the Austrians, and the delegation stipulated with regard to their reply, therefore, refers only to the portion of the terms handed them.

Dr. Renner opened with a complaint at the delay in the presentation of the peace terms. The chancellor declared the Austrian republic was entirely free from the Hapsburg dynasty. It would never have declared war itself, he asserted. The chancellor concluded his address at 12:50. The address was translated into English and Italian.

Dr. Renner stood while reading his speech, and his attitude, like that of the entire Austrian delegation, was extremely courteous, contrasting sharply with that of General Brockhoff-Rantzau and the Germans at Versailles. The cordiality of Dr. Renner apparently created a good impression on the allied delegates. The general atmosphere seemed quite friendly.

After Dr. Renner's address, in which the chancellor expressed gratitude for the food relief that had come from the Hoover commission, Premier Clemenceau asked if anyone else desired to speak. There was no response and he declared the ceremony ended.

The translation of Premier Clemenceau's and Chancellor Renner's speeches into three languages occupied the larger part of the session. It adjourned at 1:15 o'clock after having taken up 52 minutes.

Dr. Renner probably will go to Switzerland.

Follows German Treaty.
The Austrian treaty follows exactly the same outline as the German, and in many places is identical with it, except for the change in name. Certain specific clauses which applied only to Germany are, of course, omitted, and certain new clauses included, especially as regards the new states created out of the former Austro-Hungarian empire and the protection of the rights of the racial, religious and linguistic minorities in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Serbia.

Austria is left with the treaty a state of 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 people, inhabiting a territory of between 5,000 and 6,000 square miles. She is required to recognize the complete independence of Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Serb-Croat-Slovene state, and to cede other territory which previously in union with her composed the empire of Austro-Hungary, with its population of over 50,000,000 people.

Austria agreed to accept the league of nations and to accept the complete independence of Hungary.

Austria must recognize the complete independence of Hungary.

Austria must accept economic conditions and freedom of transit similar to those in German treaty.

Guarantees of execution of treaty correspond to those in German pact.

Western and northwestern frontiers (including Bavaria and Switzerland) unchanged.

Austria must recognize independence of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

Austria's recognized as an independent republic under the name "Republic of Austria."

Austria must recognize frontiers of Bulgaria, Greece, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia as at present or ultimately determined.

Boundaries of Austria, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia must be finally fixed by mixed commission.

Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia must agree to protect racial, religious and linguistic minorities.

Both new Slav nations and Rumania must assure freedom of transit and equitable treatment of foreign commerce.

Arrest-treaty treaty is annulled. Allies reserve right of restitution for Russia and Austria.

Austria must abandon all financial claims against signatories.

Entire Austro-Hungarian navy to be surrendered to allies.

Future use of submarines prohibited.

Austria may have no military or naval air force.

Economic clauses in general similar to those in German treaty. Austria gives access to Adriatic.

Penalties section identical with German treaty excepting reference to German Kaiser.

of national covenant and the labor charter, to renounce all her extra-European rights, to demolish her whole naval and aerial forces, to admit the right of trial by the allied and associated powers of her national guilt of violating the law and customs of force, and to accept detailed conditions similar to those of the German treaty as to economic relations and freedom of transit.

Of the following summary part one of the treaty containing the covenant of the league of nations and part twelve, containing the labor convention, are omitted as being identical with corresponding sections of the German treaty. Part six, dealing with prisoners of war and graves, and part eleven, with aerial navigation, are also identical except for the substitution of names, and are likewise omitted. Part thirteen of the German treaty containing guarantees of execution is not paralleled in the Austrian treaty.

Preamble.
The preamble is longer and more detailed than in the German summary and is as follows:

"Whereas, on the request of the former imperial and royal Austro-Hungarian government, an armistice was granted to Austria-Hungary on November 3, 1918, by the principal allied and associated powers in order that a treaty of peace might be concluded, and

"Whereas, the allied and associated powers are equally desirous that the war in which certain among them were successively involved, directly or indirectly, against Austria, and which originated in the declaration of war against Serbia on July 28, 1914, by the former imperial and royal Austro-Hungarian government, and in the hostilities conducted by Germany in alliance with Austria-Hungary should be replaced by a firm, just and durable peace; and

"Whereas, the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy has now ceased to exist, and has been replaced in Austria by a republican government; and associated powers have already recognized that the Czechoslovak state, in which are incorporated certain portions of the said monarchy, is a free, independent and allied state; and

"Whereas, the said powers have recognized the union of certain portions of the said monarchy with the territory of the kingdom of Serbia as a free, independent and allied state, under the name of Serb-Croat-Slovene state; and

"Whereas, it is necessary while restoring peace to regulate the situation which has arisen from the dissolution of the said monarchy and the formation of the said states, and to establish the government of these countries on a firm foundation of justice and equity.

Recognized as Republic.
"For this purpose the high contracting parties, duly named,

"Who, having communicated their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

"From the coming into force of the present treaty the state of war will terminate.

"Austria is recognized as a new and independent state under the name of the Republic of Austria.

"From that moment, and subject to the provisions of this treaty, official relations will exist between the allied and associated powers and the Republic of Austria."

WILD PIGEONS SLAUGHTERED
Scientists Agree That Disappearance of Birds Was Caused by Man's Warfare.

There are differences of opinion among scientists concerning the disappearance of wild pigeons, but most agree that man's warfare on the birds' nesting grounds has been the prime cause of its extinction. There is no evidence that disease or parasites brought about their extinction. Wild pigeons were very numerous in their habits, nesting together in large colonies with many nests in a single tree. These colonies were sometimes as much as 40 miles long and several miles wide, making it easy for hunters to slaughter the birds. Millions of them were sent to the markets each year for food, while others were captured alive and used for the sport of pigeon shooting. Those that remained after the clearing of the great forests were probably driven to the far North and perished.

FONDNESS FOR SNOW AND ICE
For skating and skating is not for the sport but for the snow and the ice. We have many times been compelled to command the boys on our skating pond to skate, not to cut holes nor break the ice nor throw snow and ice at one another. Sometimes the young folks will roll in the half melted snow, making one think of hens wallowing on the dust in the sunshine.

TO KILL FOREIGN LANGUAGE BILLS

Senate State Affairs Committee Favors Postponement.

OLD AGE PENSION ACT O. K.'D

Measure Makes Provision for Persons Sixty Years of Age—Wisconsin National Guard to Be Re-organized.

Madison.—There will be no foreign language legislation at this session of the Wisconsin legislature. The state affairs committee of the senate has reported for indefinite postponement all bills on this subject before the upper branch, and the sentiment of the senate indicates that all of the measures will be defeated by a decisive vote.

In the lower house two foreign language bills have already been killed, and the hope of forcing a measure to that house is not bright. One of the assembly measures provided that the teaching of foreign languages below the high school should be prohibited in all schools of the state, public, private and parochial. This measure was dropped in its effort and was opposed by many of the clergies. After it had been indefinitely postponed a second bill was offered which prohibited the teaching of any foreign language below the high school in the public schools of the state. This measure was also defeated. The indefinite postponement of these two bills indicates that the assembly was not in favor of any legislation on the subject and the unfavorable report of the state affairs committee of the senate indicates that the upper house will take a similar stand on these measures when they come up for consideration.

The senate by a unanimous vote passed a joint resolution, offered by Senator Huber, memorializing the president of the United States and congress to take steps to stop Jewish massacres in Eastern Europe. Senator Skogmo said that if the resolution went unacted intervention he would want to reflect on the matter. Senator Huber said that intervention was not the intention of the measure, but that it was in favor of the adoption of a modification of the old pension plans common in Europe has manifested itself in the legislature and the senate has sent to congress by a vote of 12 to 14 the Zammach bill to accomplish this purpose. The bill is not as radical as some of the old pension measures which have been introduced in former sessions of the legislature. The Zammach bill provides for home relief for the aged instead of care in county institutions.

The Zammach measure provides that any person who is at least sixty-five years of age and incapacitated from gainful work by permanent mental or physical disability shall be entitled to a pension under the terms of the law, may receive a pension. The qualifications are that he must be a citizen of the United States, a resident in Wisconsin for at least fifteen years and in the county in which application is made for at least one year prior to the time of making application; that he is of good character and of good reputation; that he has not been convicted of habitual drunkenness or vagrancy; that he has not within a period of ten years ever preceding the time of making application been committed to an almshouse or received any form of public relief to the extent of more than $25.00; and that he has not alienated any property for the purpose of qualifying for a pension beneficiary, and that he does not have a married wife of more than $200 per annum, or of more than $200 per annum, if single, divorced, abandoned or a widow.

In each county containing a city of the first, second or third class, the state board of control shall appoint an old age pension committee of three members to act in an advisory capacity to the county judge of said county. Each member of said committee shall receive for his services as much per diem as $5, but no such member shall receive more than $100 in any year.

The state board of control may increase or decrease a pension upon satisfactory proof of such change in the pensioner's circumstances as will warrant such action, and may revoke a pension upon proof of facts which would disqualify an applicant.

The Wisconsin National Guard will be reorganized as soon as congress passes the reorganization bill which is now pending. The new or reorganized National Guard will be composed of approximately 10,000 officers and men, with about 6,000 in reserve if the plans of Adj. Gen. Orlando Holway are carried out as anticipated.

Amends Personal Injury Bill.
Senator Severson has prepared a substitute to his negligence and personal injury bill, with which a substitute and an amendment are now pending in committee. Senator Severson's substitute provides that "Any action to recover damages caused by the omission to comply with any of the requirements of section 1839, or want of care in the exercise of such requirements; provided, however, that intoxication of the person killed or injured shall be a defense if it was the proximate cause thereof."

"T. R." Memorial Plan Killed.
The present Wisconsin legislature will not erect a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt. A bill to accomplish that purpose has been defeated in the lower house by a vote of 33 to 24. This marks the final disposition of a controversy which has continued throughout the session. It originated when the assembly insisted on eliminating Milwaukee as a possible site for the memorial. The bill sought to erect a compromise memorial on the location to the discretion of the legislature.

School Heads Rap Legislators.
At a meeting of Fox river valley school superintendents held at Oshkosh a resolution was adopted censuring the legislature for refusing to eliminate foreign language teaching from grade schools in Wisconsin. Thirty-five educators attended the session. C. P. Cary, state superintendent of education, was present. Towns represented were Rhineland, Marinette, Green Bay, Menasha, Manitowish, Neenah, Appleton, Kaukauna, Oshkosh and smaller communities.

Bishop Follows Is Honored.
The first act of service to men of Bishop Samuel Fallows, now eighty-four years old, was commemorated by Chicago alumni and alumnæ of the University of Wisconsin recently in Chicago.

The occasion was a dinner in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of Bishop Fallows' graduation from the university. Following is his record as given in engrossed resolutions presented to him and bearing the signatures of many members of the University of Wisconsin club of Chicago:

"Organized two volunteer regiments to fight in the Union cause in the Civil war.
"Served in that cause as chaplain of the Thirty-second Wisconsin infantry, as lieutenant colonel of the Fortieth Wisconsin infantry and as colonel of the Forty-ninth Wisconsin infantry, becoming finally a brigadier general in the United States army.
"All his life taught the gospel of right living and progress and has written and published many helpful essays, lectures and books.
"Served as regent of the University of Wisconsin, as state superintendent of public instruction of Wisconsin, and on many other public administrative boards for the advancement of education, health and morals.
"Worked diligently and effectively in the world's war, using his eloquence to inspire our soldiers and sailors to meet the clash of arms with enthusiasm and power, to forward the work of the Red Cross and other war undertakings."

Bridge Controversy Is Revived.
The famed Prairie du Sac bridge controversy, subject of a supreme court decision in 1917, has been revived by the hearing again the past week before the state highway commission.

In 1913 the matter was involved in action of the legislature which appointed to the state a third of the cost of constructing all bridges exceeding 700 feet. The municipality and county each were to pay a third.

Some time ago Prairie du Sac, Sauk county, applied to the state highway commission for an estimate on a 1,600-foot bridge across the Wisconsin river at West Point, Columbia county, objected to paying its share for construction of a bridge, the necessity of which was questioned.

The matter was taken to supreme court, which decided against Columbia county.

The original $72,000 fixed by the highway commission will not build the bridge because of the increased cost of materials and labor. Accordingly, a new petition has been brought to the commission. The entire matter is now where it was years ago. The commission will decide as to the necessity of the bridge and estimate the cost.

Cherry Orchards Heavily Laden.
This is cherry blossom time in Door county. This is a sight worth traveling many miles to see.

The beauty is enhanced by the delicious odor of the perfume that comes from the orchards, and motorists can travel for miles and enjoy the treat.

There are 2,500 acres of cherry orchards in Door county. At this time one can easily imagine the beauty of the sight. According to the orchard owners, buds are in a healthy condition and the limbs are fully covered.

The most conservative estimate of the crop is 250,000 cases.

"Thousands of pickers have been engaged," says W. M. C. A. will far exceed 500,000 and the boys scouts of Chicago will send up as many more.

"The canning factory is making preparations to can all surplus cherries."

War on Intoxicated Auto Drivers.
"Automobile accidents in Madison and Dane county must stop." With that decree, District Attorney Thomas H. Heflin, Sheriff Julius Krug and Chief of Police Thomas Shaughtnessy have launched a warfare against booze fighters and speeders who, in a large degree, are responsible for the many accidents during the last few weeks. Three speed "coops," two in the county and one in the city, and the law, which provides two years in Waupun for offenders, are their weapons.

Eight-Hour Day for Women.
The Maslakowski bill fixing an eight-hour day for women employed in factories was amended by the assembly so as to limit the amount of overtime to six hours a week. This measure fixes an eight-hour day for women in factories, with time and a half for overtime; but the amount of overtime shall not exceed eight hours weekly. In the amended form the bill was advanced, 46 to 27.

Sentences for Four Janesville Men.
Edwin Davis, Robert Lowry, Marvin Kirby, and Isaac Nelson of Janesville were sentenced to 30 days in jail by Federal Judge A. L. Sanborn on a charge of illicit sale of liquor to soldiers.

Ballard's Efforts No Avail.
Atauwau Ballard attempted to kill the bill to detach a portion of the town of Richmond and add the same to the city of Shawano. He said that the farmers in the town of Richmond were opposed to the bill and claimed that it would increase their rate of taxation. Assemblyman Ballard said that a large party hall was located in Shawano town and that the city of Shawano was compelled to furnish fire and police protection. By a vote of 51 to 15 the assembly refused to kill the bill and it finally passed.

Would Probe Fishing Industry.
A legislative investigation of the commercial fishing industry of the state was proposed in a resolution offered in the house by Assemblyman F. N. Grans, Sturgeon Bay. The resolution declares that the commercial fishing industry of the state aggregates several millions of dollars each year. It declares that there has been a wide spread of views as to the legislation necessary to regulate and control the industry, which resulted in unsystematic and inadequate laws."

Permits $400,000,000 Bond Issue.
Under the Wisconsin constitution as it is framed at present the state cannot have a debt in excess of $100,000. The Wilcox joint resolution to amend the constitution will permit a state debt for highway purposes not in excess of 1 per cent of the property of the state as fixed by the state assessment. This will permit a state bond issue of $400,000,000. Great interest has been taken in highway improvements at this session of the legislature and there are a score of smaller bills pending.

The local college share will be added to its endowment. Dr. Plantz said. An Appleton man will be selected as one of the eleven men to conduct the campaign. This will be little activity before September.

Kenosha—John O. Jones, 44, assistant engineer at the Simmons Co., was instantly killed when a live wire, carrying a heavy current, touched his chin as he was helping to remove some wooden chutes from an electric drive shaft.

Menomonee—The assessors of Dunn county passed a resolution at their annual meeting favoring exemption of purged herd sires from assessment for taxation. The sponsors of the resolution argue that because the live stock industry of the state will be greatly improved thereby, and other benefits will accrue, the purged bulls should be relieved from assessments. A copy of the resolution has been sent to the representatives of the county in the state assembly and senate with the request that the matter be acted upon at this session. Farming throughout the country are in favor of the move. It also means that the days of the scrub and grade sire are numbered.

Madison—Another pardon application is to be filed for the release of John F. Dietz, defender of Governor Dam. His children are circulating petitions throughout the state, and during the past week have been in Winnebago county gathering names to be filed with the governor asking an immediate pardon. The application for the pardon will not be filed until 1,000 names have been recorded. These will be gathered all over Wisconsin. Dietz is in the state penitentiary at Waupun, serving a twenty-year term for having killed Oscar Harp, a deputy sheriff, Oct. 8, 1910, at the time of the famous battle. Dietz's sentence was for life, but was commuted.

EXACT COPY OF RESOLUTION WHICH GAVE US OUR FLAG

LIKE BETSY ROSS

Girl of 1919 May Easily Construct Her Own Starry Flag.

THE American flag is one of the most beautiful in the world to make since all of its parts are in straight lines. Any schoolgirl who is able to sew can make a flag for about one-half of what it will cost her at a store, and still have a stronger and more durable one when she has it finished. There are two principal ways of proceeding in the making of an American flag, one used by most persons is to determine first the width of the stripes, so that if the flag is to be made of silk, ribbon may be purchased of a standard width. From this the size of the flag may be determined. The second method is to decide either the width or the length of the flag and then compute the amount of material for the size decided upon.

Let us assume that we wish to make a flag from two-inch silk ribbons, since two-inch ribbon is a standard size and may be purchased at any dry goods store. Since the stripes will be two inches wide, the width of the flag, if the blue field, will be made of two inches, or 14 inches, and its length will be the same, since the canton of the American flag is square. The canton is also one-third of the length of the flag. Then the flag will be three times 14 inches, which equals 42 inches and the width being 13 times two inches and 26 inches. Thus, to use two-inch ribbon, one will have a flag three and a half feet long and a little more than two feet wide.

Material Needed.
The next thing is to determine just how much two-inch ribbon must be purchased, so that the stripes may be made with little or no waste. There are three full white stripes. The complete length of the flag, which equals 126 inches, and added to that will be the three short stripes, two-thirds the length of the flag, or 84 inches, making a total of 210 inches, or about six yards. For the red stripes, it is necessary to add one extra short stripe of 14 inches, which is about half of a yard. Thus, for one yard of two-inch ribbon, one will be able to make a flag three and a half yards long and two yards wide.

Mean Liberty for the Immigrant.

Facts About Flag Day.
Flag day was originated in 1889 by Prof. George Borch of New York, who introduced into his kindergarten the practice of holding special exercises in celebration of the adoption of the flag by congress, June 14, 1777.

The flag adopted that day, which was the first authentic American flag, and so officially designated by congress, was made up at the suggestion of George Washington, and the popular legend is that it was sewed together by Mrs. Elizabeth Ross (Betsy Griscom), at 231 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Symbol of All We Hold Dear.
How sacred to our hearts is the American flag. It is interwoven with all of our dreams of childhood. Who all of these years do not dream as they behold it at the head of a regiment of soldiers, on an American warship, flying on the capital at Washington, or spread above the bench of a court of justice? It stands for liberty, equality, our proud past, our glorious future; for Washington, Lincoln and all the heroes that showed us the way to glory.

First Man to Carry Flag to Europe.

MONEY VANISHES FROM ROSE BANK

Court Is Puzzled Over How Bank Roll Got Out of Party Stocking.

New York.—Johnson's learned sock of literary renown went far to the background in Essex Market court, when Mary's stocking came into the limelight. Mary's stocking was a perfectly good stocking, without a single hole in it, according to the evidence, but as a savings bank it left something to be desired.

It all happened at a dancing party held at Mary Glazek's home. She paid the sum of $28 for the festivities. Mary herself said so.

Frederic Blochbach pinched $28 out of the money.

"Are You Sure He Took It?"
of my stocking," announced Mary through the interpreter.

"How do you know he took it?" asked Mr. Hogan, the assistant district attorney.

"Somebody told me that he said he did," declared Mary.

"Are you sure he took it?" "Some fellows saw him count it," declared Mary.

"In what denominations was the money?" "In two rolls; one had eight $1 bills and the other two $10's."

Witnesses were called. They testified that they had seen Feodor pick up the money from the floor. He then counted the $8 roll and showed it to the assembly. This he returned to Mary later. Mary admitted it. She even admitted that she might have lost the money from the stocking.

Judge Simms became worried.

"But I can't see," he said, "how the money got out of the stocking. The mystery is too deep for me. However, there can be no charge of larceny from the person, since the defendant picked up the money from the floor."

Feodor then proved to the satisfaction of the court that he had not rifled Mary's stocking, but that whatever money he had had found on the floor. And since there was no evidence concerning the missing $20, Feodor was allowed to go.

Ringing Awakens Philadelphia Man, Who Opens Window in the Nick of Time.

Philadelphia.—Six were saved from asphyxiation here by the ringing of an alarm clock.

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sick most of the time.
